TEMPERANCE

To the Bishop and Members of the East Florida Annual Conference.
Greetings.

We your Committee come to you again after twelve months of hard work to offer you our report on Temperance.

First, we thank our heavenly Father for having made it possible to be able to meet and greet you this day.

Sometime we are made to feel that there are but a few people today who believe in a true, moral and sober life. Intemperance has its far-reaching effects upon the people everywhere. Every serious crime and minor or major accident can be traced to some form of intemperance. If there were no more than physical things to consider or if in eating and drinking there was no moral question entering into the matter then one might possibly eat and drink what pleases his or her appetite. But we are all tied up in our accountability to God and our relation to our fellowman. We are so interwoven in life's system and so linked with God's great plan, no one can go on by himself. There is no such way of living in this world without in some way coming in touch with our fellowman.

There is no habit that has more damaging effect upon man's life than the one now under consideration. Drinking undermines man's integrity, his kindness, his helpfulness and makes him like a beast.

Mr. Scott Loftin once president, now ex-president of the American Bar Association, gives out this statement relative to the crime wave in our country. Crime is costing our country more than Twelve Billion Dollars each year, and this is more than three times the amount needed to maintain the federal government.

The liquor traffic alone is costing the people more than Twenty Billion Dollars annually, more than five times the amount spent to maintain our public schools. If this be true and it can not be disputed this Conference now assembled should pledge itself to make new attacks upon this great evil which goes forth to destroy the progress of our nation. Our civilization has had its besetting forces everywhere. But it is the duty of the preacher, the teacher and the parent to teach the youth that if they are to measure up to the position of worthy citizenship, more attention must be given to our moral and sober development.

In the inner life of man we find his determining condition and from the deepest seat of thought and desire arises our impulses. Why not think? Why not put the thought in action for the good of the nation? May you not think the repealing of the 18th Amendment helps the country the least as was stated by many; some said the school terms were shortened and the salaries of teachers were cut by reason of its place in the Constitution. But all this can be disputed even now. Our Governor is entreating the public to make early purchase of automobile tags that our schools may be maintained. In the face of the open saloon one country has given out notice for its close after six and one-half months.

The League of Nations has been assembled in Geneva for more than two months trying to find a solution for the East African trouble which threatened the world with war.

Italy has threatened the British fleet which lay out yonder in the Mediterranean waters. This destruction will involve fifty countries which voted sanction against Italy. Italy is drunk on pride and selfishness.

May we beg that you close your eyes to the East African trouble and view if you please, the records of our country. Do you see the fight is on intemperance? The great general with all his forces has voted sanction against the nation and it is working hardship on our people.

The League of Nations in this case ceases to be a virtue; the President and Congress are powerless. But there is a solution. We must go back to the days of the fathers. We must build again the altar of worship in the home around which we must gather our families, then invite Jesus in who is the Master of all problems. It is regretful to say and yet it is true, our people are not improving as they should; today there are as many women as men drinking liquor and getting drunk.

STATE OF THE CHURCH

Jacksonville, Florida, December 6, 1935.

To the Bishop and Members of the East Florida Annual Conference A. M. E. Church. Greetings.

Having been asked to submit to you a report on the State of the Church to your satisfaction and approval, I have endeavored to present the present day status of the church and its outlook of tomorrow.

The Church As It Now Exists

I trust in giving my views on this most important subject, the State of the Church, I will not be misunderstood, but rather be seen as one who has at heart the interest of the great Christian Church, which is the head of all other institutions.

It is true that the church, like all other institutions for good, must have its obstacles in the program of suffering. It has always had its hindrances in the execution of its program, which is the true type of Christ, hence for the church to have these sufferings now is no new thing and we who are the exponents of its principles and truths must be willing and ready to suffer with it if we would be true disciples of the Master.

The church has always had, and no doubt will ever have critics; from individuals as well as secular institutions and even governments. It is sad to say but these criticisms of various nature not only come from the sources named but even from some of our religious ranks. Nevertheless, as long as we keep in mind that the Christian Church is headed up by one who said it will ever stand, we need not fear of its downfall and the criticisms that come regardless of their sources.

Modern Hindrances To The Growth Of The Church

As the Christian Church moves on in the execution of God's program, there arises in this day many barriers which tend to impede this progressive program: (1) Omitting of the family altar. (2) Non-Christian Education of the Youth. (3) The advent of secular items which tend to weaken the spiritual program of the church. (4) Politics and its practice. (4) The urgent financial need to propagate the cause.

The executors of the church in its admonition and instruction have relaxed in having families to carry out the idea of the family altar which is one of the essential principles to the growth of the church in the youth.

The church has a very important part in the education of the youth if it expects to have the proper consideration in the hearts of the young people. Hence, the education of the youth should be done in a Christian home, school or college.

There is a crying need for more spirituality in the church today. The spirit which it once possessed but now seemed to be waning, because of the bringing into its worship many secular items and worldly programs. Another evil that seems to impede the progress of the church's growth is the malpractice of politics.

One of the greatest mediums through which the work of the church might grow, which is very necessary, is finance. Hence, finance is needed in a bigger way than heretofore; for as the cause grows, more money is needed as is true in every work of growth.

The Durability Of The Church To Stand

This should not be an amazing question in the minds of true Christians when we stop long enough to consider the program of Christ in his organization of the church. He has given us full assurance that His church will stand even to the extent of two or three in His name. Therefore, the crisis through which the church apparently is going, means little to the owner in its perpetuity. The Christian Church will ever stand. Let us have faith to this end and work for its continued growth by an open heart in our willingness to serve and an outpouring of our funds in the giving to its propagation.

The A. M. E. Church

This is the church that is dearest to our hearts. It has wrought wonders throughout this universe among our group to the extent of making matchless leaders in this great cause of Christianity. The A. M. E. Church has stood the storm of adverse criticisms from all sides, but has kept before it the goal—Jesus Christ—and as long as we keep before us God and his program, no hurt, harm, nor danger can befall this great branch of the Christian family. Therefore, let us run with patience this race which is set before us.

Our Church In This State

With the coming to this state of our matchless leader and prince—Bishop J. S. Flipper—we feel the church and its followers have been placed upon a higher elevation, regarding the fine Christian principles for which African Methodism stands. He has led us victoriously these seven and one-half years and his worth to us in this state cannot be told in a few words. Although he is ill and unable to carry on this

Fifty-ninth Annual Session, we regret exceedingly by his inability to serve, and pray God's choicest blessing for his speedy recovery.

Humbly submitted,

REV. C. A. GIBBS.

W. H. M. S. REPORT

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 7, 1935.

To the Bishop and Members of the East Florida Annual Conference.
 Greetings.

As representatives of the W. H. M. S. of this Conference we come to make our report. The women composing the Conference are devout Christians, endeavoring to emulate Jesus Christ. Much has been done for missions, but still room for improvement is seen. An earnest call to the presiding elders, pastors and members to double their enthusiasm for the advancement of Missions at home and in foreign fields.

The dependants are growing on our list, the meager amount on hand makes us unable to give the needy what we desire. For the workman in his vineyard is assuredly worthy of his hire.

The splendid group of Presiding Elders, ministers and laymen is to be complimented for the encouragement and a good spirit exhibited towards the sisters. Bishop Flipper and Mrs. Flipper, state president; J. L. Brooks, president emeritus; District Presidents H. Duhart, S. Dawkins, M. Coffey, J. B. Epperson have joined hands with Conference Branch President, Mrs. Clark and her cooperative vice, Mrs. G. A. Mitchell and they are happy over the report for another year's work, in serving the churches throughout with kindness and cheer to the weary travelers. May our God bless every one and the grace and divine spirit rest among you always.

MINISTERIAL EFFICIENCY

To the Bishop and Ministers of the East Florida Annual Conference.
 Greeting.

We the committee appointed on Ministerial Efficiency beg leave to make the following report. In contacting the men through the Presiding Elders, we find not one of them with complaints that would render them unethical or incapacitated to travel around in their parish and do the work of a pastor.

We give thanks to Him who does all things well, who has given us strong physiological bodies and has endowed us with such wonderful vision and will power to do the work for God and humanity.

that we cannot reconcile. We therefore recommend the case be submitted to the Conference.

REPORT ON EDUCATION

To the Bishop, Presiding Elders and Ministers of the East Florida Conference.

Dear Brethren: The Committee on Education presents the following for your consideration. We rightly consider education as representative of the school, college and university in its broadest aspects, we must note, however the African M. E. Church in the field of education can hold no other estimate and as a representative in the world must make a corresponding contribution in its task of building a citizenship in America and give the Afro-American equal opportunity in the world of letters, industry, the profession an equal place among the world's races in common fellowship and co-operation.

Place in the Nation of the Republic

The African M. E. Church in the past held its own in its men and women whose character, culture and scholarship made them potential factors in the councils of the nation and who stood as advisory counsellors wherever the interests of the Afro-American was in question. If therefore the Afro American hopes to regain this prestige and ascendancy her leaders must again make their voice potential in courageous, religious leadership, character and education, in keeping with the demands and needs of this age, a great military leader when questioned upon where the race would likely stand in the future replied, "Whatever you would hope for your race in competition with the world's races, you must put it into your schools." Another said, "Whatever we may think of the strategy, skill and courage at Waterloo, the battle of Waterloo was not won on the field of blood, but in the schools of Eton."

The chief thought, therefore characteristic of the report of your committee is that we must always have in educated leadership the very best trained in mind, in heart and in hand for this specific purpose of giving the Afro American equal standing in the councils of the republic, equal, competitive power in all the cooperative agencies in American life and to give him a chance to hold recognized place around the world. It is not enough that we regard education for a localized section or place sufficient, we must urge Afro American youth to pause sufficiently long enough for an education deep and professional and which alone can come from the thoroughly educated leaders and from the great seats of learning of America and Europe; we say whatever the cost in time or money the Afro American must seek to take his place in the halls where scholars march and where learning lingers.

Specialization After Not Before

We have reached an unfortunate era in the life of education when some educators urge literary specialization before the student has even had a look into the great requirements of a college or university education due probably to the unfortunate ambition for degrees to the exclusion of knowledge. Your committee unhesitatingly say there should be no specialization until the foundation of scholarship is laid deep and broad.

Literary Achievements of the African M. E. Church

It is not within the province of this report to more than touch upon the achievements of the African M. E. Church. It is pertinent, however, that reference should be made to the pioneers, men and women whose self-denial, sacrifice and courageous leadership dotted America, the schools, and colleges as an open door for their sons and daughters that they might have an outlook and catch a vision of the highway over which the world scholars walked, hence all honor to Richard Allen, Payne, Ward, Brown, Shorter, Cain. The Mitchells and comrades who lit the torch which have come down to us, as we look abroad, Wilberforce, Allen, Kittrell, Morris Brown, Edward Waters, Campbell, Lampton and others loom to cheer the boy and girl of color with the literary possibilities of the African M. E. Church and the Negro race to take its place in the literary life of the republic and of the world.

Edward Waters College

The men and women of Florida are to be congratulated upon the founding of Edward Waters College. We refer with pride to the efficiency of the young men and women who have passed from its halls and who today fill high and responsible positions throughout Florida, the south and many hold honorable posts throughout the country. We feel that the fathers of the church contemplated a great college and university upon the campus and grounds of King's Road. Its present President, faculty and student body supported by twenty-seven presiding elders, seven hundred ministers and forty thousand members should see and bring about the realization of this vision. To this task President C. S. Long, Jr., should lead until the influence of Edward Waters College touches the furthest outposts of the American Republic.

Lee Theological Seminary

The men of Florida should not for any reason permit themselves to be diverted from the original purpose of building a great Theological Seminary in Jacksonville on King's Road in connection with the college. The erection of a Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollar Seminary building representing the self-denial, sacrifice and vision of the people of Florida, equipped with recitation rooms, dining hall, library and dormitory is the undisputed answer that the men and women of Florida of the African M. E. Church had in mind the training of its ministry as professional, as the Theological Seminaries of Payne, Gammon, Princeton, Drew or Garrett knowing that, "The priest's lips should keep knowledge and the people should seek it at his mouth." In short the answer to our modern youth on questions of literary efficiency is to be determined by this scholastic efficiency and spiritual power of our own colleges, universities and theological seminaries.

The Church College and Religious Schools Not Out of Date

Frequently we are confronted by press and platform that the church school and college is out of date. Pity it is that these representatives fail to know or speak the language of history but a reference to the record will show that the church, colleges and schools laid the foundation for the greatest scholarship and scholastic efficiency known to American Republic and the world. The ideals, literary landmarks and standards of the educated leadership of America, today bare the earmarks of these literary leaders who though they have passed on, time in its onward sweep will never wipe out their footprints. In conclusion therefore, your committee most sincerely ask the following questions: Shall the men and women of Florida answer the challenge that we mean still to finish the literary work begun by the fathers and that Edward Waters College shall be realizations of the self denial, self sacrifice, courage and vision?

Most respectfully submitted by the Committee,

W. G. ALEXANDER, Chairman.
